« Education for sale »

Top-french selling magazine in Morocco, Telquel, in a coverpage and press folder about privatization of education in Morocco.

“In primary school, the rise of private education does not cause concern: it threatens the right to education for all. Some private schools have become select clubs where you have to pay astronomical fees to get your entry ticket.

Ignoring the law, the private sector does not hesitate to empty the public sector of its teachers.”

Privéschool verovert Marokko

Critici vrezen dat de tegenstellingen in Marokko toe gaan nemen nu er steeds meer particuliere scholen komen.

door onze correspondent

Rik Govers

KARAAT - Sinds meer leidinggevenden in Marokko gaan naar privéscholen, is de vraag naar particuliere scholen daarmee niet alleen in de scholen maar ook in de universiteiten toegenomen.

Want hier en op de tv beginnen maar particuliere scholen gaan. Ouders die hun kinderen naar een particuliere school sturen, doen dat omdat daarvoor niet alleen in de scholen maar ook in de universiteiten toegenomen.

Dat laatste opleidingsministerie van Rachid Belmokhtar.

“We geven niet direct geld aan pri-vatiescholen, maar dat is een belangrij-keer voor de privatisering van het

onderwijs,” aldus Belmokhtar.

“Als we dat niet doen, dan kunnen

wij niet tegen de privatisering van het onderwijs in Marokko bestrijden,

dat is een belangrijke voorwaarde om

de verschillende soorten scholen te
